Walker Stainless Equipment Company, Inc. has served the Dairy, Food, Beverage, Pharmaceutical and Chemical Industries with over five decades of excellence.

It was 1943 and wartime. Chicago Fabricator Bob Walker recognized a problem – how to meet the needs of dairy farmers and processors in a time of restrictions on transportation, materials and skilled help. His solution was to relocate his fabrication business to Wisconsin, the national center of dairy production. Here his business grew with the industry. That growth was stimulated by Walker’s unique combination of objectives – to serve the dairymen with excellence – to recruit and develop the best design and production specialists in the industry– to innovate and expand the state-of-the-art in stainless steel fabrication.

Beginning in 1943, Walker Welding and Machine strived to develop the very first bulk milk truck in the world and fulfilled that dream in 1953. The demand for the modern bulk tank rapidly grew, requiring expansion into the second facility devoted exclusively to the production of milk storage tanks. In 1959, Walker again led the industry with the introduction of the first fiberglass-jacketed milk storage tank and one year later, the first elliptical fiberglass-jacketed bulk pickup tank.

The combination of our history, from our founders to our current Insight Equity leadership, our expertise and our core values will serve to provide you with world-class products.
